

Research Translation Projects 2016 (Round 10)

'Evidence for a Sustainable Health System'

Call for Research Project Applications Closing Date: 1:00 pm, Tuesday 28 June 2016

The Research Translation Projects (RTPs) grant program seeks to support high-quality research projects that have the potential to be translated into policy and/or practice in WA Health in the short-term, with the aim of investigating improved efficiencies that can be delivered while maintaining and/or improving patient outcomes. The program was introduced by the former State Health Research Advisory Council (SHRAC) of the Department of Health in 2007 and is now in its tenth year.

Grant applications should address relevant contemporary challenges faced by WA Health, include a solid economic analysis of the predicted benefits and demonstrate a commitment to translation and implementation of research findings in WA.

Applications for projects that may be used as a basis for subsequent grant applications to externally funded programs such as the NHMRC are encouraged, as are applications from persons in the clinical service delivery environment with suitable multidisciplinary and cross-institution collaborations.

Projects may be awarded up to $270,000 and must be completed within 24 months. Project selection will be based on competitive merit.

The program has the support of the Western Australian Health Translation Network (WAHTN) in promoting research excellence and translation in WA.

Further Information:

The 2016 (Round 10) Application Form and Guidelines for Applicants are available online at the Research Development website.

For advice on submitting applications and accessing health economic expertise contact the Research Development Unit.

For assistance relating to linking with collaborators to assist the translation of research findings into health care policy and practice, contact Health Networks Branch or visit the Health Networks Branch website.